NEWS FROM THE SUBURBS

FULTON NEWS.

The year 1903 was for Fulton one of prosperity. The section of the city situated in the extreme eastern part of the city has made a gain in all classes of business that has been very satisfactory to all. Every merchant reports an increase in business and predicts a better year for 1904.

One of the most important items was the completion of the yards of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway at the Orleans Street station, and the erection of the round house and various shops. This gave employment to several hundred men, who moved to Fulton in order to be closer to their work. A number of new stores and scores of dwellings were erected. The improvements to James River have given work to a large number of Fulton citizens, which placed a considerable amount of money in circulation. The leading manufacturing plants, such as the Richmond Cedar Works, the Virginia North Carolina Wood Works, the fine branches of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, the Millburn Bag Manufacturing Company, the Armature Manufacturing Company, the Lower Gas Works, the American Paper Company, the various brick-yards and a score of other industries, have had an exceptionally good year, and the outlook for this year is very bright. A fair estimate as to the business done during the year is shown in the postal receipts of Suburb No. 2, in charge of Mr. R. L. Harrison. The figures show a large increase over last year, notwithstanding that thousands of dollars' worth of stamps, etc., are purchased by the larger business concerns from the main postoffice. The receipts are as follows: Registered $2,715; money orders, $22,049; registered packages, $15. The fractional orders made the largest increase last year in their history, especially the J. O. U. A. M. and Royal Arcanum, the latter making a net gain of 40 per cent.

Denny Street M. E. Church was packed to its capacity Friday night, the occasion being the Christmas celebration, which is being held on New Year's night. The service was bedecked with ferns, holly and other evergreens, which added much to the occasion. Superintendent George M. Rogers presided and an excellent program was exceedingly well rendered. The Christmas entertainment of Fulton Baptist Sunday School was held New Year's night in the auditorium of the church. The spacious auditorium was decorated very artistically for the occasion, and was packed to its fullest capacity.

The officers of the Sunday school of the Apostolic Church for the ensuing year are: Superintendent, John W. Daugherty; assistant superintendent, Samuel W. Crews; secretary, James S. Burke; treasurer, Miss Nellie Clarke; chorister, R. Leon Reams.

John Burns, better known as "Mickey," created quite an excitement on New Year's morning about 4 o'clock. Burns had a bad attack of toothache and other maladies combined, and in an attempt to get relief tried to kick out several doors.

on Graham Street. Burns first attacked the residence of Rev. John W. Daugherty, but soon realized that he was at the wrong place, and went across the street and began a terrific kicking against the front door of Dr. J. P. Williams' residence. The noise soon brought Dr. Williams to the door, and finding out just what he had to contend with, secured a policeman and used it with good effect in putting his visitor again into the street. Burns then went to Dr. B. L. Reams' residence, which is on the same block, and here he did the most damage. The scurs on the door and a panel split the whole length in two places told of the furious attempt Burns made to kick the door in. Dr. Reams came to the door and took Burns in. Burns was so enraged that he took to the door and took Burns in. Burns was so enraged that he took to the door and took Burns in.

Philip Duke, of Richmond, spent several days during the past week with his parents, who reside here.

EAST RICHMOND.

The Christmas tree entertainment on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myrtle Cook and Margaret Miller played a duet with much expression.

Misses Elma Kook and Jessie Lord also rendered a duet in fine style. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on little Willie White for the beautiful manner in which he sang the loveless of songs, "Just a Ray of Light," the following four little maidens joining in the chorus: Ruth Lord, Blanche Harman, Ethel Stinson, and Carrie Thornton.

The recitation by Miss Lillie Watson, entitled "Annie's and Willie's Prayer," was beautifully recited, while the song she sang with Miss Jessie Lord was really sung by both. A comical dialogue, entitled "Greedy Jim," was well given by five boys. Those taking part were Blair Dowden, Eddie Isbell, Elmer Walker, Melvin Strath and Carter Thornton.

Three selections were finely given by the entire Sunday school in chorus.

Henry McEwen recited "The Signs of Christmas." The presentation of the "Three Fairies" was beautiful, each taking part in a creditable manner.

The fairies were impersonated by Margaret Miller, Ruth Rayhorn and Carrie Thornton, who were beautifully dressed, looking every inch the fairy, while seven other little girls, tastefully dressed, acted as the sprites.

They were Willie White, Nannie Thornton, Laura Rayhorn, Dottie Ray, Ruth Lord, Sadie Hechler and Emma Hopwood. Mr. Fowler made a most genial and happy "Santa Claus," and distributed to every child a nice book and another nice gift, candies.

Willie Southall, of New York, spent Christmas with his mother.
